So that you can make informed decisions depending on the analysis provided here.

Bluehost Vs. DreamHost Shared Hosting Comparison Analysis

Why Shared Hosting?

Shared hosting is where the web hosting server is shared by many users.

In other words multiple users share the same server and resources like CPU, RAM, Disk Space (SSD) and bandwidth.

It is the basic hosting services provided by the most hosting services.

Moreover, it is the most budget-friendly hosting services for any beginners.

For any, beginner bloggers or someone who is starting a business or for someone who owns a small business and looking for migration.

Therefore, shared hosting would be a best option for anyone who is starting over.

Basically shared means you will be sharing the resources like the CPU, RAM, Disk Storage (SSD) and other resources with other individuals on the same server.

Unlike the dedicated server, here you will be sharing the resources with other users. At the same time the server maintenance cost and management cost is shared by multiple sites. Hence, lower monthly cost.

Moreover, once your blog or business starts to grow you have a choice to upgrade to further plans like VPS or dedicated hosting.
